

What began as a fairly simple question between two brothers, "Can people in wheelchairs complete an IRONMAN?" has morphed into an 11-year-old foundation that supports hundreds of athletes across thousands of finish lines. Since that day, Kyle along with his brother Brent were determined to find a way for others, like him, to experience the joy of true competition with no special accommodations or rules.

"To our KPF Athletes, as well as myself, it's more than just the medal and race shirt when we toe a start line. It's about redefining what it means to truly be inclusive, and racing is the vehicle we use to drive that messaging."

WHY IT MATTERS

Research shows that an In-Chair Athlete experiences the same rush of endorphins their Push-Assist Athlete does. At the core of what we do, we want our families, athletes, staff, donors... everyone to feel included and for that to be an everyday reality.

For our KPF Athletes to cross a finish line and be able to say, "I did that!" helps us rewrite that narrative of what it really means to constantly be inclusive, and that goes "Beyond The Finish."

Did you know that the majority of government-funded programs that exist to support individuals with disabilities have an age limit of 21?

AT KPF, INCLUSION has no age limit.
